PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

BY JOHN I. SCULL.

DE REPUBLICA NON DESPERARE.

No 54. PITTSBURGH, FEBRUARY 14. 1817. Vol 31.

JAMES A. LEE,

PROPRIETOR of that large and commodious establishment in Howard street, Baltimore, respectfully informs the citizens of the U. States, at large, and those of the western country particularly; that his house is fitted up in a manner which will ensure to all those disposed to favor him with their patronage, the best accommodation in every respect. The reason why he addresses himself to those of the western country particularly, is that he has long lived in that portion of the union, and he flatters himself that he is remembered by many persons in that quarter.

Country merchants and persons travelling on business, who stop at his house, may always rely on the most accurate information relative to the state of the market and all mercantile proceedings.

The conveniencies of his establishment are numerous. he has near one hundred rooms neatly fitted up as chambers, where persons may be quite retired from noise and bustle—he has also some rooms elegantly furnished with large double beds, where gentlemen can be accommodated. As he considers a good clean bed one of the greatest luxuries, he has taken great pains to place in that department, maids who pay the strictest attention to the cleanliness of the sheets, and to have them well dried and aired.

His table is provided with a profusion of the best poultry, meats and vegetables, that the market affords, and active and attentive waiters who anticipate even the very wishes of his guests.

He regularly imports the Choicest Liquors.

His Madeira wine not only amateurs but connoisseurs, have pronounced the best they have ever tasted in this country, and he assures the public that it is not unfrequently the case, that he has to supply from his vaults, "London particular" to gentlemen who are determined to treat their friends with the best.

The stable attached to the establishment, he has no hesitation in pronouncing the best in the U. States—the hostlers are attentive and faithful, and have been brought up to the business—the best oats and hay selected, and none others than such as the proprietor inspects, is ever admitted into his granary.

Of his establishment in general, he conceives he has spoken no more than will be fully justified on visiting his house

Mere words are often vain and weak,
Come try—it for itself shall speak.

Pledging himself to be alive to all the interests and conveniencies of his guests, he solicits the patronage of his fellow citizens.

THE PRINTER'S "HOUR OF PEACE."

By the Author of the

"POET'S HOUR OF PEACE."

Know ye the PRINTER'S hour of peace?
Know ye an hour more fraught with joy
Than ever left the maid of Greece,
When kiss'd by Venus' am'rous boy?

'Tis not when round the mazy case,
His nimble fingers kiss the types;
Nor is it when with toiling pace
The sturdy devil's t'il ne gripes;

'Tis not when news of dreadful note,
His columns all with mission fill;
'Tis not when brother Printer's quote
Th' effusions of his stump-worn quill.

'Tis not when all his work is done,
His glimm'ring fire he hovers near
And heedless of the coming dun,
Grows merry o'er a pint of beer.

'Tis not when at Miss FANCY'S Glass,
Long advertisements meet his eye,
And seem to whisper as they pass,
"We'll grace your columns by and by!"

Nor is it when with numerous name s
His length'ned roll of vellum swells,
As if 'twere touch'd by conj'rors wand
Or grew by fairies' magic spells,

No—reader, no—the Printer's hour
His hour of real sweet repose,
Is not, when by some magic pow'r
His list of patrons daily grows:

But O, 'tis when stern Winter, drear,
Comes rob'd in snow, and rain and vapor
He hears, in whispers soft and near,
We've come to pay you for the—PAPER!

FROM THE BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER.

Miseries of a Slippery Morning.

1. After a rainy day and a frozen night, walking out in the morning in a new pair of boots; finding the side walks made of glass, and generally inclining at an angle of 45 degrees; stepping an inch at a time and adjusting your centre of gravity at each step like a rope dancer; deeming it a subject of congratulation when you have advanced five rods without a fall.

2. Finding your feet slipping backward, you rush forward about a rod to save yourself, then fetch up by ploughing your nose, wrists and knees over a surface of ice like a harrow.

3. While waiting for the returning pulsation to tell if you are dead or alive, hearing a horse-laugh from the bystanders, which your own pain, shame and indignation do not permit you very cordially to unite in.

4. Practicing the hop skip and jump attitudes after you have split your pantaloons, broken one knee and dislocated the other.

5. At another time finding yourself going, like a drowning man you catch at the nearest object, which with a desperate struggle you hurl into the gutter,—and then upon turning round you discover this object to be a lady of quality, whose countenance intimates, that she has not been used to such treatment.

6. After it has begun to thaw, you have the unhappiness to lay your length in a gutter, and upon rising, find your drab coloured suit suddenly metamorphosed into the uniform of the states prison.

7. Seeing a lady slip down on the opposite side, you gallantly step forth from the crowd and offer your hand to raise the fallen fair.—While adroitly and gracefully performing this office,—away go your heels and the lady and yourself roll promiscuously into the street. The ten thousand pardons which you afterwards ask are not a drop in the bucket to shield you from the infamy of being a clumsy fellow.

8. Sliding down a glassy precipice which terminates in the middle of the street, when a truckman's sled with four horses in full gallop, is within three paces of you!

SPECTACLE OF A BEAUTIFUL NIGHT,

In the Deserts of the New World.

Translated from Chateaubriand's "Genie de Christianisme."

An hour after sun-set the moon appeared above the trees in the opposite horizon. A balmy breeze which she brought with her from the east, seemed to go before as her refreshing breath in the forest. The Queen of night ascends gradually in the heavens; now she follows silently her azure course,—now reposes on piles of clouds, resembling the summits of lofty mountains crowned with snow. These gradually unfurling themselves were spread into zones of satin whiteness, and dispersed in their foamy flocks, or formed in the heavens resplendent banks so pleasant to the eye as almost to induce a persuasion that one could feel their softness and elasticity.

On earth the scene was not less ravishing: the soft and silver light of the moon descended among the foliage, and projected streams of light into the profoundest shades. The river which flowed at my feet, by turns lost itself in the woods, and, by turns re-appeared, all brilliant with the constellations of night which were multiplied on its undulating bosom. In a vastly extended prairie on the other side of the river, the light of the moon slept motionless on the green. Birch trees scattered here and there through the marsh, and agitated by the breeze formed Islands of shadows, floating on a motionless sea of light. Around me all was silence and repose, save the dropping of the leaves, the brisk transit of sudden flaws of wind and the occasional hooting of the bird of night: but afar off was heard, the rolling, solemn sound of the cataract of Niagara, which in the stillness of night reverberated from desert to desert, until it ultimately expired in the distant solitary wild.

The grandeur and stupendous solemnity of this scene are altogether inexpressible. The most beautiful nights in Europe can convey no adequate idea of them. In vain in our cultivated fields does the imagination seek to expand itself, it encounters on every side the habitations of man; but in this country of deserts, the mind delights to plunge into an ocean of forests, to wander on the borders of boundless lakes, to hover over the gulphs of cataracts, and, if it maybe uttered, to stand alone in the presence of the deity

REVOLUTIONARY SPEECHES, ORATIONS, &c.

In pursuance of the plan to collect and publish, and thereby preserve, a body of revolutionary speeches and orations, Mr. Niles, the Editor of the Baltimore Weekly Register, lately addressed a letter to the late President Adams, requesting his aid in the undertaking the following—are extracts from his reply:

"Of all the speeches made in Congress, from 1774 to 1777, inclusive of both years, not one sentence remains, except a few periods of Dr. Witherspoon, printed in his works.

"In the Vatican there is a picture of the creation by Raphael. A man is represented darting into chaos, and buffeting its heterogeneous elements with his fists, and kicking the Molocules Organiques, its primordial corpus "cules" into the sublime and beautiful order of this universe.

"My papers are an infinitessimal miniature of Raphael's chief d'ouvre. But I have neither clerk, secretary or amanuensis, to leap in; and my eyes are too blind and hands too paralitic, to jump in myself.

"Numa, buried his papers, and ordered them to be concealed for five hundred years. At the expiration of that period, the senate ordered them to be burned, as dangerous to religion. That is, to the religion of the Phenicians, Persians, Egyptians, Indians and Scythians, converted by the Greeks into pretty, elegant and laughable fables.

"It is a serious question, whether I ought to bury my papers or burn them. You would not publish them, and if you should, they would ruin the sale of your Register.

"In plain English and in a few words, Mr. Niles, I consider the true history of the American revolution, and of the establishment of our present constitutions, as lost forever. And nothing but misrepresentations, or partial accounts of it, ever will be recovered.

"I am, sir, with thanks for your communication, your very humble servant,

JOHN ADAMS.

"Quincey, Jan. 3d, 1817."

From the Raleigh Register.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

By giving the following recipe a place in your paper, you will probably do a public good and oblige

A Subscriber.

I have laboured under a disease called the chronic rheumatism, for 9 months. I could get no relief from the faculty of physic—the pain increased to such a degree that I could scarcely walk; I stated my case to a friend, who advised me to drink red pepper tea, which I accordingly did in the evening just before going to bed, and the next morning to my utter astonishment, I found myself entirely relieved from this disease, and have not had even the slightest symptom since.

FRENCH COLONIAL SOCIETY.

From the Abeille Americaine.

Several of the subscribers to the French Colonial Society have communicated to us a number of letters from France & Belgium, which leave no doubt of the success of this interesting company. The number of heads of families, farmers, laborers, mechanics, manufacturers, who intend bringing their industry and their pecuniary means into the United States, and joining their old countrymen, is no less than three hundred, according to those letters only.

The cultivation of the plants producing the coloring matter, and their preparation to fit it for commerce, of the grape, the olive, the mulberry, the rearing of the silk worm, are the branches to which our new fellow citizens will specially devote their attention. Seeds and plants most suitable to this climate have been ordered from France, and, before the end of June next, their beneficial qualities may be entrusted to the land of America, for the enjoyment of the children of liberty. We sincerely wish and fully hope that a concert of zeal in the efforts of these refugees will console them in their expatriation, and reward their adopted country for the noble hospitality they cannot fail to obtain here.

Miss Boyce, of Drury Lane Theatre, was in the habit of occasionally looking at her fingers, while playing, apparently if not really, to assist her recollection. One evening—the play was "Wild Goose Chase"——resorting more frequently than usual to this ugly trick, a voice from the pit uncourteously addressed her with, "Oriana, is your part written on your, nails?" She, with infinite grace and good humor, replied—

"Why, critic, thus complain with brow severe,
"Why blame you that, which all the world commends?
"None can more perfect in her part appear,
"Than she who has it at her fingers, ends."

The long reiterated and re-echoed thunder of applause which this produced, gave Mr. Critic an opportunity to escape before the inevitable "Out with him," could be served upon his person.

Portsmouth, (N. H.) Jan. 25.

ANECDOTE—A well known simpleton, who has for many years been employed in carrying the corn to mill for the poor house in the town in which he lives, was one day accosted by the miller in the following manner:—"John, they say you are a fool—that you don't know any thing."—"Hah, hah,! (said John) that can't be true, for I do know some things, tho' I may not know other things. But I can tell what I do know, and what I don't know," "I'm glad to hear it (replied the miller); now let us hear what you do know." "I know (answered John), that the miller's hogs grow fat"—"Very well, very well, that's true, John; now please to inform me what you don't know"—I don't know (cried John, scratching his head,) whose corn they are fed on.

PRINTING.

WHEN a Jew, who was a famous Dutch printer, brought to Constantinople printing presses &c. to introduce the art of printing in that City, the Grand Vizier caused him to be hanged; declaring, that it would be a great cruelty that one man should enrich himself by taking the bread of eleven thousand scribes, who gained their living by their pen.

STOLEN.

WAS stolen these four weeks successively, in a private house, a large quantity of very large linen and cotton bed sheets, and ticking bolster, with feathers, table cloths, napkins and towels, linen cambrick and linen men's shirts, coloured pocket-handkerchiefs, linen cambrick cravats, silk and cotton hose, &c all marked J. B. It is presumed that the robber has sold some and concealed part or all. Any person who may stop or give any information at the office of this Gazette, will receive a handsome reward.

PITTSBURGH.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1817.

"Z." is received and shall be attended to in our next.

THE GOLDEN OR SILVER AGE RETURNING.

We have the satisfaction of announcing says the Philadelphia Gazette of Feb. 3, that at a meeting of the Bank Delegates from Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New-York, held in this city on Saturday last, it was resolved that the respective Banks represented would resume the payment of Specie on the 20th of this month. This measure will, almost instantaneously, produce the important effect of equalizing the currency of the United States, as well as to abolish the circulation of small tickets, which have so long vexed and abused the public. It now only remains with the public to exercise a corresponding disposition with the banks, to insure the happiest results from this arrangement. There are no doubt large sums of specie dispersed throughout the community, which have been withheld from circulation in consequence of the peculiarly delicate situation of the national finances. The present is the proper period for the holders to unlock their coffers; and by seconding the judicious measures of the Banks, to effect a restoration of public confidence, which is all that is wanted to insure a general specie circulation throughout the United States.

The arrangement of the Banks, noticed above has already, had the effect of reducing the premium on specie, as well as equalizing the exchange between New-York, Baltimore and Philadelphia. It is even stated that some Exchange Broker's signs have been taken down. This is surely a good sign of the times.

A Trinidad paper remarks, that by Parliamentary documents, it appears, that England derives five millions of revenue annually, from the West Indies, besides four millions expended in British manufactures; and that the total sum received in England from the West India proprietors, annually, is seventeen millions sterling! Thus nearly 1000 ships, and 25,000 seamen, are employed.

From the Louisiana Gazette.

The CONGRESS Frigate has arrived off the Balize from a cruize in the Gulph of Mexico, during which it is said she fell in with two of the Spanish vessels which made the late attack on the Firebrand, which she overhauled after a chase of some hours. It is also said that the reason given by the Captain for running from the Congress, was that he thought her a Mexican frigate which was building at Baltimore for the patriots.

A COUNTERFEITER.

Communicated.—A man of the name of David Miller, was taken yesterday, and is now confined in the jail of Westmoreland county, on a charge of passing counterfeit bank notes. He passed in Ligonier Valley 250 dollars on the "Bank of Pennsylvania," and 15 dollars on the "Elkton Bank of Maryland." The signatures were executed with a plate. He had in his possession two 50 dollar notes, one on the "Bank of Pittsburgh," the other on the Saline Bank of Virginia." These had been originally for small sums, but the figures were erased, and 50 pasted over the erasure. Green. Gaz. Feb. 5, 1817.

Charleston Jan. 23.

CULTIVATION OF THE SUGAR CANE.

We understand from unquestionable authority, that Sugar of an excellent quality was made at the plantation of major James Hamilton, jun. on Callawassie Island, St. Luke's Parish, on the 6th of Jan. from canes which had been cut and stacked since the 12th of Nov. last. It is remarkable that their exposure to a severe frost on the night of the 11th, did not prevent a perfect granulation of the juice, notwithstanding some few of the more exposed ends of the canes were partially acidulated. We learn that the product in quantity per acre is sufficient (when the last most unfavorable season is considered) to warrant and encourage a continuance of its cultivation on a more extensive scale.

Georgia and the Carolinas have boldly entered into the tide of experiment—they have succeeded. They possess what SOCRATES emphatically calls "the wealth of Nature." They have now the opportunity of bestowing a signal blessing on the whole Union, by the extensive cultivation of the Sugar Cane. Its final success, of which we entertain no doubt, will in a great measure, if not altogether, exempt us from the pressure of those colonial restrictions, which the caprice or folly of foreign states has the power at present to enforce—and they will thus throw another granite on those bulwarks of real national independence, which are rapidly rising to encircle our country.

Change in District Money.

A gentleman in Washington sold drafts on N. York at an advance of 5 per cent. Yesterday they could not be disposed of at any advance whatever. We understand that the Bank of Washington will pay specie on the 20th inst. and no doubt the remaining banks in the district will adopt the same measure, when many Sterling fellows will be released from their long and close confinement to the great joy of the community at large.—George. Mes. of Feb. 5.

INLAND NAVIGATION.

A part of the western commerce which has been heretofore carried on by the way of the Mississippi, is about to seek a new channel. The practicability of navigating the Tombigbee has been ascertained by actual experiment, a keel-boat 30 or 40 feet long, loaded with merchandize, having lately gone in 20 days from the town of Mobile to the falls of the Black Warrior, a tributary stream of the Tombigee. The goods being then put into waggons, were conveyed to Huntsville, distant an hundred miles, in 8 days more, along a newly cut road, but capable of being made an excellent one, as the surface of the country through which it passes is firm and level. This is evidently the natural course of trade for a large portion of the state of Tennessee and the upper part of the Mississippi Territory, particularly with the West-Indies and the Island of Cuba.

Milledg. Jour.

The amount of ardent spirits, of foreign and domestic manufacture, consumed annually, in the United States, is little short of thirty four million gallons. In 1810, when the last census was taken the amount was ascertained to be 33,365,329.

A letter from Concord, Mass. dated Jan. 9, says, "Our winter has thus far been remarkably open and fine. Last week the white pond lillies expanded their leaves and were in full bloom.—They had not time to blossom last summer.

Bangor Paper.

From the New-York Gazette Feb. 3.

We learn, by the arrival of the schr. Spartan, Captain Johnson, from Port au Prince, that Sir Gregory Macgregor, had entirely abandoned the cause of the Spanish patriots. He had arrived at that place, and had taken passage for Baltimore in the schooner Brisk, Captain Stevens.

FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

THE CAPTIVE.

The Captive whom oppression binds,
May carrol gaily as a lark;
His heart is free as passing winds,
Altho' his cell is lone and dark.

His heart is bold, his conscience free,
His face can wear an honest smile
For every breast serene may be,
That does not harbour shame or guile,

But trembling is the coward heart,
Of him whose arm has wrought the chain,
No soothing balm his thoughts impart,
For they are full of guilt and shame.

He fears the man he triumphs o'er,
Respects the heart he can't subdue;
And rending locks the prison door,
Of him he hates, but dare not view.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

DESERTED from the U. S. Arsenal, near Pittsburgh, on the night of the 10th inst. JAMES RYLEY and JAMES FIGG, enlisted laborers in the Ordnance Department.

Ryley was born in the town of Derry, county of Derry, Ireland; aged twenty two years, five feet five inches high, of light complexion, blue eyes, dark hair and by profession a glazier. Took with him of U. S. clothing, two shirts, one pair of grey woollen overalls, ornamented with white silk braid, one white woollen vest, one white dragoon jacket, one pair of stockings, one pair of shoes, one full made great coat of lion skin blue cloth; also, one sword and white belt—wore a citizens hat.

Figg was born at Bryant's station Fayette county state of Kentucky; aged fifteen years, four feet eight inches high, of light complexion, blue eyes, brown hair and by profession a soldier.—Took with him of U. S. clothing, two shirts, one pair of grey woolen overalls, one pair of stockings, one pair of shoes, one black leather stock, one brown vest, one grey uniform coat, one felt cap, one full made great coat of lion skin blue cloth, and one pair of black cloth gaiters. It is probable that the aforementioned deserters will in some respects change their apparel.

Whoever will deliver said deserters to the commanding officer at this post, or at any military station or jail within the United States, shall receive a reward of twenty dollars, and all reasonable charges paid—or ten dollars for either of them.
